embedded from within us. The acts of kindness are not driven by "quid pro quo" (or doing something of value in return), but motivation to make a real difference in the lives of others. The appreciation of that kindness creates joy. However, the joy that flows out of love keeps on giving when finances and resources are depleted because help comes to us at the same time. Our self-esteem flourishes with joy from within and we become happier.

In the hope of discovering our joy and flourishing self-esteem over the next 47 weeks of 2023, I offer five random acts of kindness, amongst others, for sharing in our villages: (1) walking the dog, (2) repair something, (3) volunteer with shopping, (4) help with reading at schools and (5) looking after your neighbours. You may have further ideas, which I am keen to hear of for sharing with the wider community. We'll respect any wish to remain anonymous in the examples received. Finally, I will pray for your efforts in February, so go to it!!

With love,
Revd Barbara

A NOTE FROM ME

Welcome to the month of February, four weeks after entering the new year of 2023 and we're still cold.

I was intrigued with a recent Guardian Newspaper article by Emma Beddington entitled: "52 acts of kindness: how to spread joy every week of 2023".

Why "Joy", you may ask? One of several "Joy" meanings offered by the dictionary cites: "a source or cause of delight".

As a source or cause of delight, I believe joy starts from our heart. It needs nurturing time through the love of Christ to transform character. Returning to the 52 acts of kindness, now 47 from this month, no need to replicate what others are doing. These acts of kindness will be unique, special and heartfelt because their source or cause of delight is

The Whist Drive in December raised £100 and we would like to thank all the local businesses for their continuing support in such events.

The children's Christmas Party was well attended by local families and families from neighbouring villages, raising £133.50. It was a fun event with lots of laughter and an appearance by Santa with each child receiving a selection box. The money raised is contributing to a community Coronation event, details to follow. Thanks again to local businesses for supporting this event.

The Farmer Christmas Tractor Run was a spectacular sight through the village with the village hall open for refreshments and parking, with all monies raised going to the Yorkshire Air Ambulance. The village hall provided an amazing viewing position as they all entered the village.
